ABOUT US

Armours Funeral Service is known throughout our local communities for the highest standards of compassionate care. When you place your trust in us you can expect the highest standards of professionalism and a truly distinctive service.

OUR ROLE AS YOUR FUNERAL DIRECTOR

Our role is to ease the burden of difficult decision making, at a stressful time. To listen carefully so that we may offer you expert guidance. As an independent family run business you will have a single point of contact who is always on hand to ease any worries of uncertainty with compassion and practical help.

CONTACTING ARMOURS FUNERAL SERVICE

We are available all year round no matter the day or time. You can contact us by telephone on Ayr - 01292 286113, Troon - 01292 311800, By email - info@armoursfuneralservice.co.uk or at any of our branches. We are also more than happy to arrange to visit you at your own home. We would feel privileged to make the arrangements for the funeral of a loved one and assure you of our personal service at all times.

REGISTRATION OF DEATH

Provisional funeral arrangements can be made before registration, but a death must be formally registered before the funeral can take place. For deaths in Scotland, an appointment can be made with any Registrar within eight days of the death occurring. Deaths in England can only be registered in the District where the death occurred and must be done within five days. As funeral arrangements cannot be confirmed until registration is complete, we recommend appointments are made as early as possible. Registration offices are contactable by phone at the following locations.

Ayr Registration Office - (01292) 617617
Cumnock Registration Office - (01563) 576695
Kilmarnock Registration Office - (01563) 576695
Irvine Registration Office - (01294) 324988

ARRANGING THE FUNERAL

Funerals have the power to be very meaningful. Unique to your loved one. A reminder of the things they held dear and which were important to them and you. Our role is to help you arrange an appropriate funeral. It may be traditional or contemporary, religious or non-religious, formal or informal - or a blend of influences, whatever you choose we are here to support you and carry out your wishes.

Most services include some kind of spoken word such as prayers, poems or readings. Music also is usually very important. Hymns may be sung and/or music played. The funeral service can be conducted by a Religious Leader, Humanist, Celebrant, Family Member or Friend. Services can also be non-religious. The choice is entirely yours. We can arrange any of these choices on your behalf.

CHOOSING BETWEEN BURIAL OR CREMATION

The decision has to be made whether the person who has died is to be buried or cremated. The deceased may have had a preference or left details in a Will or Funeral Plan.

Cremation: A Cremation Service can be just as traditional as a burial. Most Crematoriums have chapels in which to hold the funeral service, but a local Church can also be a choice. The ashes can be interred at a Cemetery, kept by the family, or scattered in the grounds of the Crematorium or at a significant place close to the heart of the deceased.

Burial: For many families, it is traditional to be buried or their religious beliefs may mean that burial is required. If a family lair does not already exist a plot must be obtained from the Local Authority of the Cemetery that has been chosen as the final resting place.

PAYING FOR THE FUNERAL

Seven days after the funeral, an invoice of the account is usually sent to the person who has arranged the funeral. If a solicitor or other party is settling the account, we will send them a copy as well. If you are in receipt of certain benefits, you may be eligible for help towards the funeral account from Funeral Payment Support, please do not hesitate to ask us for any help with these matters.

Armours Funeral Service Floral Selection

All local florists deliver to us as part of their service. Flowers can add another personal element. From traditional funeral sprays or wreaths, to contemporary displays, there are many options available. Often these are shaped by what purpose the flowers will serve after the funeral; place on a grave, taken to a hospice or nursing home, left in a church or place of worship, or divided so family members can take a memento. We can arrange floral tributes on your behalf, whether that is choosing something for you where there is no preference or following a specific request. For personalised tributes or to see the fullest range of possibilities you may wish to talk to your local florist direct.
